GOV. SMALL'S MESSAGE WAS GIVEN SOLONS

Revision of Tax Laws One of Big Planks in His Platform

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 5.—(AP)—Governor Len Small did not directly call for a gasoline tax by name in his message to the joint session of the 55th General Assembly, but urged equitable revenues for highway purposes.

"The revenues for road purposes," he said, "should be derived without direct taxation from those who use the state highways, and should be raised in such a manner as to fall as lightly as possible upon the motor vehicle owners. It should be fair, just and equitable, and sufficient in amount to carry out the expressed policy of the people as shown by their votes upon the bond issue laws."

For Tax Investigation A commission of seven members to survey and investigate tax laws in force in other states, the extent and manner in which our present tax laws are evaded was recommended by the Governor.

This commission will be composed of the speaker of the house of representatives, the president pro tem of the senate, and five citizens of Illinois, and will have the power to subpoena witnesses, administer oaths, compel the production of books and papers in order to determine in what way our present tax laws could be amended so that all property would have to pay its just share of taxes.

"At the last session of the General Assembly," said Gov. Small, "a constitutional amendment which would have enabled the legislature to have afforded the much needed relief, was submitted to the people, but due to lack of interest and to the provision of the constitution which requires an amendment to receive a majority of all persons voting at elections, and the difficulty of directing attention to a small separate ballot, it failed of passage, although receiving a majority of all the votes cast on that subject."

While the defeat of this amendment will probably make it impossible for the legislature to give full and adequate relief, yet I wish again to direct your attention to the necessity of revising our laws so as to attain as nearly as possible a modern system of taxation and equalization that will assist in making a fair distribution of tax burdens.

Early completion of the Illinois waterways, providing an all-water route from Chicago to New Orleans, was urged as essential to the relief of the agriculture, industry and commerce of the state from the economic handicap due to the inland location and the high cost of thousands of miles of towage for the surplus products.

Recommendation was made for an adequate appropriation to provide for a comprehensive and scientific study of the flood situation throughout the state, to be made in cooperation with the federal government, and for a report of the findings and recommendations to be made to the next general assembly.

Enactment of more stringent regulations as to the sale of seeds to give more adequate protection to the farmer was also recommended.

Points to Reserve Fund Economy and prudence exercised in the various departments of the state government as well as collection of unappropriated revenue into the state treasury is shown in the balance of $1,471,844.50 in the revenue fund of December 31, 1926, the governor pointed out.

"On account of this favorable situation," he said, "the state tax board, assuming that there would be no increase in appropriations for the next biennium, was able to make a reduction in the state tax rate from 55 cents to 53 cents."

Suggestions were made that the legislature consider changes in the method of distributing the state common school fund, in order to give more adequate aid to the poorer districts, and that a study be made to coordinate the laws dealing with flood control, with drainage, and preservation and growth of forests, so as to

ADMINISTRATION IN CONTROL WHEN ASSEMBLY MEETS

House Organized Today on Strict Party Basis After Caucus

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 5.—(AP)—With administration forces holding the reins, the 55th Illinois General Assembly began work here today.

Louis L. Emmerson, secretary of state, called the house to order and turned the gavel over to Representative Robert Scholer, Peoria, renamed to the speakership at a cut-and-dried party caucus Tuesday night.

Reed Cutler, Lewistown, functioned as republican floor leader and Michael Loe, Chicago, selected by a 39-29 vote over Truman A. Snell, Carlinville, at a democratic caucus, took his place as the minority leader. Bert H. McCann, Bloomington, was sent back to his old post as clerk of the house. Frank Leonard, Chicago, was named deputy speaker and Miss Eva Young, Marion, was named post mistress for the fourth time. Miss Lura Tillet, Tower Grove, will be her assistant.

In the upper branch, Lieut. Governor Fred Sterling officiated as president and Senator Richard Barr, Joliet, president pro tem. Democratic senators unanimously turned again to Senator John Denvir, Chicago, to lead party issues.

Jewell Directed Caucus Senator William S. Jewell, Lewistown, presided as chairman of the republican caucus last night and by virtue of the fact became chairman of the committee on committees. He will be aided by Senators Daily, Kesinger, Land, Pugh, Anderson, Marks, Meents and Wright.

Mrs. Florence Fifer Bohrer, Bloomington, served as secretary of the caucus; James H. Paddock, Springfield, sergeant-at-arms; Mrs. S. A. Bradley, Springfield, was elected post mistress of the Senate over Miss Sallie Perkins. Bert Woody was returned to his position as clerk of the committee on enrolling and engrossing.

Last night's selections in both party caucuses were affirmed by a strict party vote, 93 to 59, when the house assembled today. There was one vacancy in the democratic ranks caused by the death of Frank Morrassy, Sheffield.

Spone Administered Oath At a joint session of the house and senate, the oath of office was administered by Clyde E. Stone, Peoria, chief justice of the Illinois Supreme Court. The official vote cast for state officers was canvassed and both branches remained in joint session while Governor Len Small delivered his biennial address.

Galleries were crowded to a large extent by women both from Chicago and down state, who were present to welcome the five women members of the House and Senator Florence Fifer Bohrer, Bloomington. Women representatives are:

Mrs. Rena Elrod, and Mrs. Katherine Hancock Goode, Chicago, re-elected republicans; Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill, Downer's Grove, the first woman to be elected to the house by republicans; Mrs. Sarah Bond Hanley, Monmouth and Mrs. Harry C. McAdams, Quincy, Mrs. Hanley and Mrs. McAdams are democrats, and the first women in the history of their party to occupy seats in the Illinois legislature.

Women Split Vote In the democratic caucus last night Mrs. McAdams voted for Thomas O'Grady, Chicago, for caucus chairman while Mrs. Hanley cast her vote for the successful candidate, David McCluggage, Peoria.

Following organization, both houses adjourned for a week to give Speaker Scholer time to work on committee assignments.

In the senate there are forty republicans and 11 democrats, in the house 92 republicans and 59 democrats. The lone independent, Louis L. Beckman, Kankakee, has been seated with the republicans.

The house convened at 12:07 with an invocation by the Rev. E. B. Rogers, former pastor of the Central Baptist church of Springfield.

Appropriation of Ten Millions Reported to House Today

Washington, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Prospects of the destructive European corn borer invading the great corn growing regions of Iowa and Illinois at the rate of 150 or more miles per season today caused the House agriculture committee to report the Purnell corn borer eradication bill after less than an hour's discussion.

The measure, carrying a $10,000,000 appropriation, has the approval of Secretary Jardine. Before the money would be made available, the state in which the borer exists would be required to pass regulatory and cooperative laws.

It was testified at the committee hearing that the borer now is destroying corn in a dozen states and is advancing rapidly from Ohio and Indiana, where the situation is most critical.

Representative Purnell, republican, Indiana, author of the bill, will ask for a special rule in the hope of enacting the measure before February 1, so that the control work may commence before the spring planting.

STATE PLANS ACTION

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 5.—(AP)—Action of the house agricultural committee toward corn borer eradication today brought forth from S. J. Starnard, director of the State Department of Agriculture, a statement indicating "increased state effort" in preventing the borer's importation into Illinois.

"Through the rigid enforcement of embargoes proclaimed by Governor Len Small," said the statement, "every possible effort has been put forth to prevent any importation of the corn borer into Illinois. Representatives of this department in the division of plant industry are starting upon a program of increased effort, working in conjunction with the agricultural department officials of eastern states and with the federal department of agriculture."

"Other states have gained a knowledge of this pest that will be helpful in combatting it in Illinois when the natural advancement reaches this state. We consider the borer one of the most dangerous foes that ever beset the corn belt."

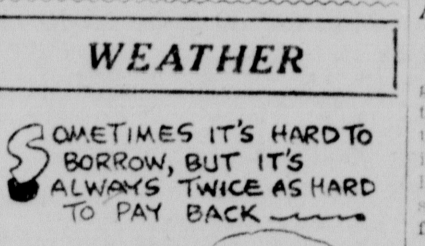

Ogle Co. Coroner Conducted Thirty-One Inquisitions

Dr. J. C. Atkins of Forreston, Coroner of Ogle county, has filed his report for 1926, which shows that he conducted thirty-one inquests during the year. One was accidentally shot by a friend; one was killed by a premature explosion of dynamite; four died from heart failure; three from apoplexy; and two died from unknown, but natural causes. There were twelve investigations of deaths from natural causes.

ONLY ONE FRIDAY THE 13TH IN 1927 CALENDAR YEAR

Two Double Holidays: Two Will Fall on Sabbath Days

Superstitious folk who believe that there is an element of bad luck connected with a Friday which happens to fall upon the thirteenth of the month, are probably congratulating themselves that the new year 1927 has but one of these days of ill omen and that comes early in the year and will soon be over and done with.

The only Friday the 13th this year comes in May just in time to get it safely out of the way in time for summer vacations to start. The year just ended had but one Friday, the 13th, and this was held back until August.

The year 1927 will bring good luck in some respects since two of the holidays generally celebrated fall on Monday, thus assuring double holidays. There are Decoration day, May 30, and the Fourth of July. Thanksgiving will be on the 25th of November, Christmas comes on Sunday this year and New Year's day will also be on Sunday.

Ream's Damage Suit is Called in Chicago Today

Joliet, Ill., Jan. 5.—(AP)—Injuries suffered by Charles Ream, Chicago taxi driver, who charges he was kidnapped and mutilated by Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, were described before a crowded court room today by Dr. O. F. Scott.

Contrary to the general belief, the physician testified the operation was not skillfully performed and Ream had been left in a dangerous condition. Hundreds of persons were unable to gain admittance to the trial in which Ream asks $100,000 damages from the sons of wealthy Chicago parents, both of whom are serving penitentiary sentences for the killing of Bobby Frank.

Unfrustrated and apparently enjoying their vacation from prison, Leopold and Loeb were in court again today and heard Ream complete his testimony started yesterday. It was expected the two defendants would take the stand either late in the day or tomorrow.

Miners Will Not Hold Wage Conference in Fla.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 5.—(AP)—Operators and miners of the bituminous field will hold their wage conference, commencing February 14, in some other city than Miami, Florida, President Harry Fishwick of the Illinois Miners indicated today.

Miami was selected at the last conference in Jacksonville, Florida. Word is understood to have been carried to International President L. Lewis that Illinois operators are willing to negotiate with the union but will demand modification of the present scale.

A conference to name wage conference city will be held soon, Mr. Fishwick said he believed.

Calls Capper Bill to Control Jackers Unsound

Washington, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Association that he spoke for packers representing 95 per cent of the productive capacity of the industry, Oscar G. Mayer, president of the Institute of American Meat Packers, today described the Capper bill to bring private stockyards under jurisdiction of the packers as uneconomically unsound.

Testifying before the senate agriculture committee, he said he believed the measure would ultimately break down the system of direct buying developed by the packers and throw the industry back to the hardships of irregular shipments and consequent violent fluctuations in price.

Army Fliers Halted Today by Accident to New York

Guatemala City, Jan. 5.—(AP)—The good will Pan-American flight was temporarily halted again today when the New York, flagship of the American Army Air Corps, made a forced landing on the Aurora flying field soon after the aviators had hopped off for San Salvador.

The aviators were not seriously injured, but repairs are expected to require about two weeks.

GUNBOATS IN ORIENT RUSH TO WAR SCENE

Chinese Situation is Fraught With Grave Danger Now

Peking, Jan. 5.—(AP)—An official dispatch from Nankin says the city of Wu Han about 500 miles up the Yangtze river from Shanghai has been looted presumably by northern troops. The American destroyer Ford has been ordered to Wu Han.

London, Jan. 5.—(AP)—An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Shanghai says that all available naval forces are leaving there at full speed for Hankow.

Shanghai, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Reports here say all women and children at Hankow have been instructed to embark preparatory to leaving port. British authorities here have been unable to confirm the report.

London, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Frontier appeals for more land and naval forces are being made by the British government.

The foreign office today said that the situation at Hankow was in the gravest danger but that it was felt that the British authorities on the spot would be successful in averting armed conflict.

The foreign office says the Hankow disturbance was due to Cantonese agitators attempting to provoke the British to use force in defense of the British concession thereby stirring up another crisis such as took place recently at Wanchin in order to embarrass Great Britain's newly declared policy of conciliation.

Chicago Patient at Hospital Found Dead in Ward Tues. P. M.

Richard Hebron, of Chicago, epileptic patient at the Dixon state hospital, was found lying on the floor of one of the wards about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon by the attendant, M. Cox, who returned to the building with other patients from the dining hall. Examination of the body disclosed the fact that Hebron had passed away apparently while in an epileptic seizure. Coroner Frank M. Banker conducted an inquest over the remains at the Stapes-Mayer mortuary this morning at 9 o'clock, the jury returning a verdict of death due to epilepsy.

Hebron had been in the habit of remaining in the ward and not going to the dining hall on many occasions, and when he did not accompany the other patients in the ward at noon yesterday, no attention was paid to his absence. Returning to the ward, the body was discovered lying face downward on the floor between two beds. Hebron came to the Dixon state hospital from Chicago in December, 1923, to receive treatment for epilepsy. He suffered two seizures yesterday, according to the testimony at the inquest, and expired in the second.

She had been engaged as teacher of schools in that vicinity for the past 12 years.

Governor Suspended Him Ten Days: But It "Hasn't Taken"

Denver, Colo., Jan. 5.—(AP)—Warden J. Tynan today continued in control of the state penitentiary at Canon City, in defiance of an executive order from Gov. Morey, suspending him for ten days without pay.

Charged by the governor with inefficiency, drunkenness, insubordination and inhuman treatment of convicts, Warden Tynan declared the courts have ruled that a governor has no authority to suspend a warden and that "nobody is going to take possession except by legal means."

Governor Morey said Tynan was informed of his suspension by telephone yesterday and of the appointment of Sheriff Glasson of Fremont county as acting warden.

Tynan maintained he was employed by the state civil service commission and would continue in office until relieved by the commission.

PROHIBITION IS SPREADING OUT: ISSUE GROWING

Need of Putting Poison in Alcohol Aired in Capital

Washington, Jan. 5.—(AP)—As bills and resolutions continue to be offered in congress to get at the bottom of the need for poisonous ingredient in industrial alcohol, some of the leading commercial users of this product have come to the defense of existing denaturing formulas as "protective dikes of governmental and lawful business interests."

Meanwhile, prohibition continues to expand to other quarters as plans go forward for the annual meeting here Thursday of the Citizens Committee of One Thousand for Law Observance and Enforcement, at which the dry issue is expected to figure in the discussion.

While the senate was calling upon Secretary Mellon yesterday for information as to whether the Anti-Saloon League or Wayne E. Wheeler had anything to do with promulgation of poisonous alcohol denaturants, and the house was listening to a defense of its members against excessive drinking charges, the National Paint, Oil & Varnish Association appealed to Assistant Secretary Andrews to "stand by your guns" in the present controversy.

Said to Have Made Attempt to Smoke Family from House

George Stackpole was arrested last evening on a charge of disorderly conduct and is to face trial before Justice Grover W. Gehant in police court this afternoon. Stackpole is alleged to have decided that the eviction process of ridding his premises of an undesirable tenant was too slow, and last evening he is said to have started several sulphur candles burning with a view of smoking out the William Eller family who occupied one of his houses. A small child in the Eller family is said to have suffered from the fumes and a physician was summoned, together with police officers.

Mrs. A. W. Leland Resigns from Board

The lease of the rooms on the first floor of the city hall building, now held by Dixon post, No. 299, G. A. R., expires March 1, 1927. It was called to the attention of the commission and upon motion of Commissioner Charles E. Miller the lease was extended for a period of five years or until such time as the charter of the post is surrendered. The regular monthly bills amounting to $3,298.40 were ordered paid.

YOUNG SCION OF FAMILY OF WEALTHY PACKERS LANDS IN JAIL IN EFFORTS TO MARRY

Los Angeles, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Michael Cudaly, 19 year old scion of a Chicago family, is in jail after having been foiled by his mother in three attempts to marry a motion picture actress.

A stern father took the love-besieged youth into custody last night at the request of his mother, Mrs. John P. Cudaly, as he visited town after town with his bride-to-be, Miss Marie Astaire, 19, in quest of some official who would issue him a marriage license.

Each time the strategy of the mother was effective. Again and again she notified county authorities by telegram and telephone that her son was under age and that she refused to consent to the marriage. She declared Michael had been drinking recently.

MARINES TO MANAGUA TO GUARD LIVES

British and Italians in Nicaragua Capital Ask Troops

Washington, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Secretary Kellogg is to be invited to appear before the senate foreign relations committee for questioning regarding American military activities in Nicaragua.

Washington, Jan. 5.—(AP)—In announcing that an American marine guard had been ordered to Managua, capital of Nicaragua, the state department disclosed that British and Italian diplomatic representatives there had requested outside protection for their nationals.

On the heels of a White House statement that President Coolidge proposes to protect not only American lives and property but the treaty rights of the United States government in Nicaragua, word comes from that country that American marines will return to Managua today for the first time since their withdrawal fourteen months ago.

Admiral in Command

Although no intimation had been given here as to the possibility of such a move, Managua dispatches reporting the intentions to land a force of 160 marines from the United States ship Galveston at Corinto for movement to the capital and seat of the conservative government of President Diaz, were taken to indicate that Rear Admiral Latimer, in charge of American naval forces there, had deemed such a step advisable in view of the latest turn of events.

Dispatches said the marines would be used as a guard for the American legation at Managua and that high officials of the Diaz government, which is recognized by the United States, regarded their arrival as timely and stated they would save the country from anarchy.

Decision Yesterday

Marines will be sent from Corinto by Rear Admiral Latimer in command of American forces in Nicaragua. Decision to send them was reached yesterday and observers took the decision as a definite answer to rumors that the administration was contemplating withdrawal of its naval forces from the Central American republic.

A state department announcement telling of the plea of the British and Italian representatives said: "The department of state has been informed by the American minister at Managua that the British and Italian charge have made representations to him that they consider their subjects in imminent peril in the present situation without outside protection that he concurs in these views which represent the consensus of opinion there among the Americans and other foreigners."

Announcement of the landing of a new force of American marines in Nicaragua was followed today by a statement by Chairman Borah of the senate foreign relations committee that the Monroe doctrine has "no relation" either to the situation in Nicaragua or the trouble in Mexico.

The latest American force to be sent ashore in Nicaragua will go to Managua, the capital where the state department said protection had been requested by the American, British and Italian legations.

The question of applicability of the Monroe Doctrine was discussed among other things at a closed meeting of the foreign relations committee and it was decided that Secretary Kellogg would be asked to appear before the committee later.

"Propaganda being put out that the Monroe Doctrine has some application to the Nicaraguan and Mexican situations has no foundation in fact," Senator Borah said in his statement. "The Monroe Doctrine has no relation to the questions involved."

Mrs. Frank McIntyre spent Monday and Tuesday of this week in Chicago on business in connection with her hair dressing establishment.

OLD MASTERS

When he who adores thee has left, but the name
Of his fault and his sorrows behind,
Oh! say wilt thou weep, when they
Darken the fame
Of a life that for thee was resigned?
Yes, weep, and however my foes
May condemn
Thy tears shall efface their decree;
For, Heaven can witness, though
Guilty to them,
I have been but too faithful to thee.

With thee were the dreams of my earliest love;
Every thought of my reason was thine;
In my last humble prayer to the Spirit above
Thy name shall be mingled with mine!
Oh! best are the lovers and friends who shall live
The days of thy glory to see;
But the next dearest blessing that Heaven can give
Is the pride of thus dying for thee.

"Andoka" Helping Tubercular Nurse

Chicago.—(AP)—Out on an Indian reservation at Harlem, Montana, there is a cow named "Andoka," an Indian word meaning "friendly." Andoka was named, however, after the Andoka Philanthropic Club of Chicago, through whose efforts it was purchased to make a tubercular nurse well and strong again.

"She wanted $30 to buy a cow and we responded with $50," said Mrs. Thomas H. Byrne, president of the club. "She called the cow 'Andoka' and the members were thrilled when they realized that Andoka was giving life and health to this girl."

Work with the disabled war veterans is considered by the club its largest philanthropy. "One of our largest philanthropies is the Christmas work which we do at the Edward Hines Memorial Hospital," continued Mrs. Byrne. "This year we gave eighty-five bath-robes, costing nearly $300. We visited the hospital on December 25 and gave out the bath-robes to the boys, together with cigarettes, matches and playing cards."

"We send them phonograph records each month and at Christmas time last year we partly refurbished and cleaned the visiting room in the tubercular ward."

"Children at the county hospital we remembered with dolls, Christmas stockings, kimono and baby blankets which the members make. A contribution is also sent to the Catholic Social Center at St. Patrick's church."

The club was founded in 1912 by Mrs. Daniel Munro and five presidents have served since that time. Christmas money was raised by collecting "half a mile" of pennies.

In addition to being a member of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, Andoka Philanthropic Club is a member of the "Sarah Hackett Stevenson Memorial."

The WOMAN'S 2 DAY by Allene Sumner

HER SHELL-LIKE EARS

Ear tint, waxed and scented, to give a shell-like appearance to the mounds and matrons' aural appendages is now on the market. And one wonders what will come next. A wily commercial world, knowing that woman will pay and pay and pay for beauty, or what she thinks is beauty, has produced just about everything.

Eye-brow pencils and crayons to make interesting blue-black shadows over and under and around the oris, mascara for the eyelashes, skin foods, skin tonics, vanishing cream, creams, lotions, liquid powder, rouges and powders to match a thousand flesh tints, lipsticks that paint real cupid bows, perfumed with myriad flower scents.

But somehow to me, this ear tint is sort of a last straw in the bale of folly! No logical reason for this old-fashioned reaction, of course, but I continue to insist it's silly!

"OH, DEAR, A FRICKLE!"
Being on this beauty subject, I just read the rhapsodical outburst of a beauty editor who had discovered a magnifying mirror for the dressing-table. It looks like any mirror, comes in amber or cream or pink or blue or jade pearl with powder box to match, but when you use it—bloody!

You see all the little lines that are coming, all the freckles, all the moles, all the everything that shouldn't be on the skin you love to touch.

The beauty editor is all excited about this discovery. To me it savors of having one of the carnival "Funny House" mirrors on your dressing table. After all, the world doesn't view one's skin through a magnifying mirror; why should the individual?

It symbolizes men women's exaggeration of her own importance. WE'RE LIPSIDED!

Some deliver after truth has discovered that the average woman's face is lipsided, the right side of the face is more developed than the left because the right eye is used more, which is why we see upon our streets no symmetrical oval faces like the Madonnas painted by Michelangelo and Raphael.

Lipsided or no, though, I'd stake most any girl one meets nowadays up against the Madonnas, and let the four-eyed public choose.

Miss Sara Graham-Mulhall has been given the $5000 prize awarded annually by a woman's magazine to that woman who has contributed most to humanity that year. Miss Graham-Mulhall has devoted her life to the conquest of the drug habit.

She helped make the importation of heroin or opium a crime, and has fought for special drug divisions in police departments the country over.

"The drug menace" may not seem to come very closely home to the hundreds of thousands of women who will hear of this woman's name for the first time when the award is announced, but it is a nearer danger than many of them dream.

The school children in many cities are approached by drug vendors on their way to and from school.

MOST CHILDREN
That woman of Toronto, Ont., who gives birth to the most children within the next 10 years will receive the one million and a half estate of a millionaire sportsman who recently died in that city.

One wonders at the motive. A slap at relatives who were snugly awaiting his death and his fat property? A last joke, an outburst of ribald mirth, as the sportsman visited the city's women staging their competitive race for the nice juicy property?

Or did the millionaire really believe in large families, regardless of their quality, believing that motherhood of quantity only should be rewarded? If the latter, I opine he's all wrong. I can imagine a mother of just one child born and reared under difficult circumstances into a high type of child, much more worthy of the fortune than some other of 30, triples and quadruplets not included.

SHABBONA COUPLE WEDDED 71 YEARS ON NEW YEARS DAY

Have Lived in DeKalb Co. Village All Those Years

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Husk, venerable residents of Shabbona, celebrated their first wedding anniversary at the home in Shabbona on New Years Day. Mr. Husk is 92 and his wife is 89 and both are active and busy with all of life's activities. It is doubtful of the state can find another couple married for so long a time—anyway, a couple that can interest with reminiscences of a character, with those that have come under the observation of Mr. and Mrs. Husk. In the first place Mr. Husk had the warm friendship of Chief Shabbona. Mr. Husk was a stage driver in the early period of history. This was a popular occupation of the early day. It afforded adventure, good wages and mighty good company while on the road. It was no uncommon occurrence to have his stage loaded inside and out while making his trip and then it was a life with interest.

Everybody in those days was talkative, good company and mighty few of them could match Mr. Husk.

Mr. Husk is perhaps the only living person who had intimate acquaintance with Chief Shabbona. He had enjoyed dog feast with the old times without number when a young Indian; he had been Shabbona's guest man. This acquaintance included Shabbona's favorite son, Smoke, who died in Iowa when making a pilgrimage back to Illinois and was buried beside the trail. He knew Pokanaka and Sibogay, Shabbona's two squaws and it is almost dramatically interesting to hear him talk about those days and those surroundings.

It is now a well graded and well cared for gravel road, and it is in his day Thomas Lincoln kept in like good order, the public had little cause to complain of his services.

Only the other day, one of the great southern dailies, I think it was The Courier Journal, published an editorial under the heading, "Lincoln's Father." I quote from it: "Records show Thomas Lincoln to have been a county patrolman and road overseer assigned also to keep the peace." It goes on with a list of this elder Lincoln's occupations, ownership of farms, and his filling of various positions of trust in his community, and closes with the words, "No record has been found which might cast the slightest shade on his name."

down with enough force to cripple their spinal cords forever.

"Darn it all! Ed's got a disposition that would sour a pickle factory!"

"Another dispute?" asked his mother.

"Dispute!" Her son looked at her as though he was hearing a new word. "Dispute!" That's a good one! Say—just look at this skinned knuckle, will you? And see till I get my overcoat off and you see the mud on my suit. Dispute! Well, you might call it a little difference of opinion."

"Look here, Dick," said his mother, "since I've got to mend your shirt and send that suit to the cleaners, I have a right to know what it was about. Be serious for once in your life and sit down and tell me."

"Why—why—it was about New York."

"New York?"

"Yeah, Whether it is an island or not."

"Well, what on earth is the difference whether it's an island or a planet? What were you fighting about?"

"Why, because, when Ed said it was an island, I said it wasn't. Then he got lippy and said it was and he could prove it and I was just as contrary old egg that didn't know enough to hatch. I had to sock him one for that."

"Look here, Dick," in a hopeless voice, "Ed was right. You are contrary. You belong to a large class of people who think that contradiction means conversation, and the other way about. The only way you know how to converse is to dispute and argue about every word anyone says to you. Then if the other person stands up for his own opinion, you take it as a personal matter and become abusive."

"Say—is New York an island?"

"Yes, You see the Harlem river—"

Dick jumped to the phone. "That you, Ed?" Say, you're right, New York is an island."

"It's not, you idiot, it's a state!"

Dick smashed up the receiver and yelled. "Excuse me, mother," he shouted. "I have another pressing engagement."

It's a hard world for the Irish. And for those champions of culture who are trying to teach the younger generation the gentle art of conversation.

Some Time Back

AN EARLY DAY PATROLMAN

No public servants have done their work under closer and more critical general inspection than have the road patrolmen. In the first place, everybody uses the roads, and so feels a sort of proprietorship in them. In the second, it is hard to find the man who doesn't think he knows, naturally, just how a road should be built and cared for. And again, under the age-long system of "passing an office around," almost every farmer of a township has had his term or more of experience as a commissioner of highways.

But all this attention to his work serves to keep the patrolman awake and tends to make his job interesting. It is no bad thing for the public to keep an eye on its servants.

In spite of cases enough where the work might have been done better, the patrol system would seem to have justified itself, and be here to stay. The highways are much too great an interest for the tax-payers simply to build them and then to abandon them to ruts and disintegration, under no care, or only slight care of some spasmodic sort.

Early in November, this year, the writer traveled a portion of the "Jackson Highway" between Hodgenville, Ky., where Abraham Lincoln was born, and Bardonia, another historic town of that state.

A notice by the roadside read to the effect that Thomas Lincoln, father of the President, once served as patrolman on a few miles of the highway from the foot of Multitragh's Hill to the crossing of Rolling Fork River. This was when the Lincoln family lived on their Knob Creek farm, at the foot of the long, steep hill, just mentioned.

It is now a well graded and well cared for gravel road, and it is in his day Thomas Lincoln kept in like good order, the public had little cause to complain of his services.

Only the other day, one of the great southern dailies, I think it was The Courier Journal, published an editorial under the heading, "Lincoln's Father." I quote from it: "Records show Thomas Lincoln to have been a county patrolman and road overseer assigned also to keep the peace." It goes on with a list of this elder Lincoln's occupations, ownership of farms, and his filling of various positions of trust in his community, and closes with the words, "No record has been found which might cast the slightest shade on his name."

All this is of interest, in the present articles showing the association, over 100 years ago, of the great name of Lincoln with the work of the county patrolman.

The formula, according to Dr. Smith who is one of the world's best known chemists, has been responsible for his own ability to retain memory.

"The trouble with most forgetful people is that they become excited when they attempt to recall incidents out of the hazy past," said Dr. Smith. "We have no better example than the college student. If he could look upon an examination paper as calmly as he regards matters of life, he probably would have very little trouble. Fear and excitement get him muddled—all because he doesn't keep cool."

THE PHILIPPINE REPORT.

Principal recommendations in the report of Col. Carmi A. Thompson, sent by President Coolidge to investigate conditions in the Philippine islands, may be summarized as follows:

Transfer of the islands from jurisdiction of the war department to an independent civil agency for administrative purposes.

Protection of the Moros from Filipino rule, in accordance with the understanding of the Moros when they surrendered, but furtherance of hopes on other islands for a united Filipino people.

No amendment of the Philippine land laws by the United States congress, but amendments by the local legislature to attract capital for development of production of rubber, coffee and other tropical growths.

The recommendation of the transfer of jurisdiction for the purposes of administration seems to be based upon the finding that while General Wood is to be commended for his efficient service as governor general, the military atmosphere of the administration has been unfortunate in its reactions upon the Filipino leaders.

"The governor general, himself a distinguished soldier, is surrounded by a group of American officers, who serve as assistants, aides and confidential advisers," says the report. "These officers have excellent military records, but evidently lack training and experience in the duties of civil government."

Before Colonel Thompson was sent to the islands, some newspapers sent representatives to study and report on conditions. One of them indicated that General Wood had found himself compelled to call upon army officers because of inability to retain services of civilians in the circumstances of such service.

It is recited by the president's investigator that "the Moros, unconquered by Filipinos or Spaniards, surrendered to Americans upon receiving what they believed to be a solemn promise on the part of the United States to protect them from Filipino rule." He says: "The obligation of this promise should be kept."

Colonel Thompson found that the legislature and its leaders have sought consistently to exercise powers vested in the governor general, and that many of these powers virtually were abandoned to them by the chief executive who preceded General Wood, and they have stubbornly contested Wood's efforts to regain and exercise them.

That situation seems to have been the basis of the fraction that has existed during the rule of the present governor general.

The report says it would be unwise to relinquish control of the islands at this time, as their abandonment might complicate international relations in the orient.

"I believe that no leader, either in politics or in business, expects independence for a long time to come," is Colonel Thompson's conclusion, but he recommends extension of self-government as rapidly as the inhabitants show capacity for it.

THE JOB IMPROVES.

There's a new electrically refrigerated ice box in the White House! Hereafter when President Calvin the Cool goes to the cool ice box for a midnight snack, he will extend the presidential hand into the cool recesses of the most up-to-date ice box to be had.

When George Washington and his successors Adams and Jefferson wanted a cold drumstick or piece of cheese, they went into the "ice cellar," dug 15 feet down under the White House.

Abraham Lincoln's ice box, whither he repaired when the pangs of hunger became overpowering, was just a wooden box of rough lumber caulked with putty and paint.

But now! Ah, succulent celery, aromatic cheese, butter-fried chicken, cold tapioca pudding, and other left overs from the White House dinners or luncheons, what glory shalt be theirs!

This job of being a president seems to improve right along!

THE TINYMITES

BY HAL COCHRAN

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

Well, now that Mister Snowman's gone, the Tines, with another dawn, decide to find some new fun that will pass the time away. Wee Scouty was the first awake. He shouted, "Say, for goodness sake, you lazy little fellows better hop up for some play."

"I know where we can get a thrill. Not far away's a big steep hill. Let's take the runners off our sleds and do a skiing stunt. We left the sled back in the snow. Just where it is I do not know, but surely we can find it if we all join in the hunt."

So off they went, as Scouty led, and soon they found their little sled. It didn't take them very long to pry the runners loose. And then they climbed and climbed until they reached the top peak of the hill. Then Clowny shouted, "This is great. It's slippery as the deuce."

Now who should be the first to go? Well, Clowny volunteered to show the rest of them the proper way to ski! Out in the air, said he, "Just watch me shoot the white and then you all can follow suit. I'll do it first to show you how. That surely seems quite fair."

They tied the skis upon his feet, and when 'twas done, they looked real neat. Then Clowny bravely stood right up, preparing for his slide. "Now, watch your step," wee Copy said, "so you don't land upon your head." And in a moment, "Here I go! Now watch me," Clowny cried.

Out in the air he seemed to vault, and promptly turned a somersault. The others laughed to beat the band. 'Twas really quite a show. Poor Clowny flopped around and round, and finally landed on the ground. The next thing that he knew they found him buried in some snow.

(The Tines get some skates in the next story.)

SAINT and SINNER

Charles Reilly Neff, junior member of the law firm of Cluny and Neff, was a middle-aged man who looked more like a gentleman prizefighter than a lawyer. Faith knew that he had almost as many court victories to his credit as had his more famous partner, Ralph Cluny. The two men had been not only partners in their profession, but the closest of friends in private life.

The first significant question that Coroner Murchison asked was like a bombshell in that breathlessly quiet room: "Did you recently assist the deceased, Mr. Ralph Cluny, in the drafting of his last will and testament?"

"I did."

"Without asking you at this time to produce a copy of that document, Mr. Neff, I am going to ask you if Miss Cherry Lane, who is now Mrs. Christopher Wiley, will materially benefit through the terms of that will?"

"Miss Lane was named as one of the chief beneficiaries under the document drawn up in our offices one month ago today," Mr. Neff answered loudly and clearly.

A score of people gasped audibly. A reporter looked at his watch, and almost ran from the room. Faith felt as if she were going to faint.

"Is the bequest to Miss Lane contingent upon her marriage with the deceased?" the coroner asked quietly.

"It is not. The clause regarding

One of the cows became bewildered and jumped on the radiator, breaking both lights, knocked a hole in the radiator and bent the radiator back so the fan would not work. They got as far as the George Smith home where they stayed all night. Mr. Isham and Mr. Mehan were on their way to Polo to attend the funeral of the former's uncle, Daniel Isham. He had gone about four weeks ago to spend the winter. His death was due to complication of diseases and was 78 years and 6 months old.

On January 7, 1872 he was united in marriage to Miss Sarah Wilson and to them two children were born. He left to mourn his departure besides his sorrowing wife and daughter, Mrs. Elanah Watson of LaCrosse, Wis., one nephew, Garfield Isham of Chicago and Roy Isham of Boston, Mass., and many friends. Paris Gossip Venders Band for Protection

Paris—(AP)—Writers of the short, sparkling and often indiscreet articles that have a wide vogue in Paris newspapers under the caption "Echos," have formed an association for their mutual benefit.

Just what the benefit will be is left open to doubt, but some commentators have pointed out that numerous duels have resulted from these anonymous paragraphs while often late readers who considered their dignity or reputation hurt have gone gunning for the writers. Nevertheless the "echos" continues one of the greatest sources of newspaper joys to French readers.

SPORTS OF SORTS ALL SORTS EDLERLE FURNISHED FINEST DRAMA FOR SPORTS LAST YEAR

Such is Opinion of W. O. McGeehan, National Known Writer

New York, Jan. 5.—The finest sports drama of the year 1926 must be credited to a woman, Gertrude Ederle. This is the opinion of W. O. McGeehan, nationally known sports authority.

Reviewing the year's sport parade in the January issue of the Elks magazine, McGeehan picks the three outstanding figures as those of "Gertrude Ederle breasting the English channel in its most savage mood, of Gene Tunney alighting from an aeroplane and walking into a ring under a sudden sky to meet Dempsey, the Killer, and of Grover Cleveland Alexander, the ancient pitcher, walking from the dug-out to become the hero of another world series."

"In retrospect," he says, "the figure of Gertrude Ederle stands out as the most romantic and the most courageous."

McGeehan credits Tunney's "man of destiny" complex for the surprising defeat of Dempsey. His serene prediction of victory, his confident flight by air to the scene of battle and his calm, smiling attack, carrying the fight to the champion at the bell, were factors that worked psychologically to defeat the champion before the first round was well begun, says the writer.

The psychological effect of confidence, McGeehan says, also took the world's baseball championship to St. Louis when Alexander was called upon to pitch his third game of the series.

"He did not hurry. He did not hesitate. But to Lazzari of the Yankees it was the march of doom. Grover Cleveland Alexander pitched to all as though it were just an ordinary game and not one upon which a world championship hinged. He dared to pitch and he dared to pitch to Ruth. The hero of the big drama of the baseball season was Alexander who smokes chews—and pitches when pitching is highly essential."

Thinks Farm Lot May Produce Diamond Stars

Chicago, Ill.—(AP)—The farm lot may take the place of the sand lot in developing future baseball stars.

George R. Kline of Tazewell county, president of the Illinois Farm Bureau Baseball League, thinks so. The League will hold its annual gathering at Peoria in connection with the twelfth annual meeting of the Illinois Agricultural Society there Jan. 26, 27 and 28. A 1927 program and schedule of county farm bureau baseball games will be drawn up.

Big league scouts, Kline said, kept a watchful eye on many farmer-boy baseball players last year. He wants to make baseball the major farm sport, and thinks all farmers should take more recreation.

The first farm bureau teams were organized four years ago. The league expects to appoint a "dictator" and complete plans for doubling its membership, at the Peoria meeting.

300 Golfers Ready to Play Western Tournament
Los Angeles, Calif., Jan. 5.—(AP)—Six Los Angeles golf courses teemed with activity today as the hour approached for the preliminaries to the $10,000 open tournament. Nearly 300 players representing the best from 26 states, England and Canada were entered.

Thirty six holes of qualifying play on the courses of the Los Angeles, Brentwood, California, Wilshire, Midwick and Hillcrest country clubs will determine before night the 128 players to qualify for the start in the 72 holes of play at El Cerrillo Country Club Friday.

Swedish Running Champion is Genuine Coffee Addict
New York, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Edwin Wide, Swedish running sensation, is a coffee addict. The conqueror of Paavo Nurmi, here to break some of the Finn's indoor track marks, says he takes two or three cups of it frequently at a single meal.

New Zealand Champion Has No Hope to Beating Gene
New York, Jan. 5.—Tom Heeney, boxing champion of New Zealand and South Africa, who is here, has caused a great surprise. He admits he has hopes of conquering Gene Tunney.

LANDIS LAUNDRY READY TO BEGIN WASHING LINENS

Risberg and Gandil Will Dig Up Soiled Cloth for Him to See

Chicago, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Swede Risberg came to Chicago today to hang some ten-year old baseball linen on the line in Commissioner Landis' office and defy more than a score of the game's greatest stars to deny that it was dirty.

While Risberg was digging into the basket, hauling into the light some of the rags of 1917, Chick Gandil, another of the Chicago White Sox players discredited by baseball in the grand cleanup of 1926 was Chicago-bred from New Mexico, presumably bringing another bundle of soiled linen for Landis to look at.

Risberg left his dairy farm to take a train at Rochester, Minn., last night, which year, he charges the Detroit to be here early to face players of the Chicago and Detroit teams of 1917 in "Tigers" "bloughed" a four game series to help the Sox win the American League pennant.

Clarence Rowland, one of those named by Risberg, believes the box scores of the games exonerate him.

Rowland directed attention to the pitchers he used—Cicotte, Williams, Russell, Faber and Danforth. "My runstays," he said of them. "And we had a hard time winning at that."

Commissioner Landis today became judge, jury, prosecutor and defense attorney. Banked about him are such diamond figures as Eddie Collins, Ray Schalk, George Burns, Ty Cobb, Harry Heilmann and many others of the 38 who were requested to attend, each intent upon defending himself against the implications of giving or receiving money for "throwing" ball games.

Thistlethwaite to go to Wisconsin University

Madison, Wis., Jan. 5.—(AP)—Glenn Thistlethwaite, football coach at Northwestern University for the past five years, will act in a similar capacity at the University of Wisconsin next fall.

Announcement of Thistlethwaite's selection was made today by George Little, athletic director at the University here and followed the statement by the athletic council that Mr. Little would be empowered to select a new coach.

Chicago, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Glenn Thistlethwaite, who directed Northwestern to a tie for the 1926 Big Ten football championship, is slated to succeed George Little as grid coach of the University of Wisconsin with official announcement expected from Marston today.

Thistlethwaite's five year contract with the Purple expires next June and according to prevailing reports, he will assume command of the Madison squad next fall.

Hoppe Begins Fight to Regain His Championship
New York, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Will Hoppe tonight will begin his fight to recover the world's 182 ballline title, snatched from him by Jake Schaeffer two years ago.

In the path of his attempted comeback stands Eric Hagelacher, German star, Hagelacher, the man who unexpectedly overthrew Schaeffer last spring, apparently has no fears for his championship. In two previous matches he won victories over Hoppe.

Clean Kidneys By Drinking Lots of Water

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys if Bladder Bothers or Back Hurts

Eating too much rich food may produce kidney trouble in some form, says a well-known authority, because the acids created excite the kidneys. Then they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, begin drinking lots of good water and also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity; also to neutralize the acids in the system so that they no longer irritate, thus relieving bladder disorders. Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders.

VETERINARIAN OF STATE ADDRESSES MEETING TUESDAY

Over Fifty Veterinarians of State are Present Here

Dr. F. A. Laird, state veterinarian with headquarters in Springfield, addressed the more than fifty northern Illinois veterinarians assembled here for a three day conference, at their afternoon session at the court house yesterday. Dr. Laird told the veterinarians of the proposed legislation which is being prepared to be submitted to the legislature at this time.

He explained briefly the contagious abortion bill which has been completed and is now ready for submission. Referring to the work of cleaning out the poultry flocks of Illinois of tuberculosis and white diarrhea, Dr. Laird told the veterinarians that no fund was available in Illinois at this time to pay indemnity on poultry. The tuberculosis program, he stated, was confined strictly to bovine, and added that this is a severe handicap in carrying on work in poultry. He pointed out that certain changes would be necessary in present laws and new bills were being prepared to cure for this work.

Few Accredited Chickens

In commenting upon the practice of hatchery owners to advertise their birds as being accredited, Dr. Laird stated that there were less than a dozen accredited flocks of chickens in the entire state and that after the present year, hatchery owners would be required to advertise under the head of approved instead of accredited, or until such a time as the eggs were received from disease free flocks.

President R. E. Kluck of Freeport, who is presiding at the session, conducted a question box at the close of Dr. Laird's talk, the state veterinarian answering many important questions.

University Speaker

Dr. Robert Graham of the department of animal pathology at the state university was the first speaker at the afternoon session and again last evening gave a very interesting address, illustrated with lantern slides on the treatment of poultry for tuberculosis and white diarrhea. His talk in the afternoon dealt with the testing of chickens. He told his listeners that the veterinarians of Illinois would have to take hold of the poultry development in Illinois in order that it may become the success that is anticipated. He also told the veterinarians that tuberculosis in poultry in Illinois was bad and that the poultry housing conditions generally were much worse and that poultry sanitation at this time is of vital importance in the state.

ADVERTISE IN THE DIXON TELEGRAPH

Here is another remarkable airplane picture of inundated Nashville. Every street shown in this picture is under water. In some places the water is up to the second stories of the buildings. In the background can be seen part of the Cumberland River.

As an aerial cameraman saw it from an NEA Service airplane while Nashville's great flood was at its worst, the plant of the Portland Cement Company looked as if it had been built in the middle of the ocean. Here it is surrounded and partially submerged by the waters of the Cumberland River. The plant is the largest of its kind in the south.

PICTURES GROWTH OF ACTIVITIES ON ILLINOIS' RIVERS

Congressman Hull Tells of What Waterway is Due to Accomplish

Peoria, Ill., (AP)—A picture of the increased activity along the Illinois river, and other waterways of the central United States, which it is expected will follow completion of the deep waterway, which congress has authorized, was called up by Congressman W. E. Hull of Peoria, veteran fighter for the waterway.

"This," Mr. Hull said, "will be the greatest waterway system in the whole world. We can then start a boat at Saint Paul, come down to Davenport and then through the Hennepin Canal on to Peoria or Chicago, when we can have a boat started at Buffalo, N. Y., come to Chicago with its cargo and then on down the Illinois river to New Orleans, when we can start a cargo of steel at Pittsburgh and bring it direct to Peoria by water, when we can load our own products, machine made here, and ship by water all the way to Kansas City and then to Omaha, Sioux City, Iowa and further down to Galveston, Houston and Corpus Christi, Texas; then the people of this section will realize what a waterway means to the building up of this city.

"I do not want to dwell too much upon the future prosperity of this city for fear that those of us who live here will not take advantage of what is before us no more than those who have lived ahead of us took advantage of building the waterway that we are now prepared to build.

"But, let us analyze what it means to those of us who are interested in the City of Peoria, and in the vicinity of Peoria. In other words, what makes Peoria is the building up of suburbs around close to us because the trade from these smaller suburbs all come into the merchants of the city. "I had a merchant say to me one day, 'I cannot see where I gain anything by a waterway, I buy my stuff in New York and ship most of it by express."

"Of course, I do not expect this waterway to become express business but I do think that it will particularly do the heavier materials present to us the opportunity of building factories, steel mills and the like because by so doing we will have the opportunity to bring in ore and other materials at a low rate so as to put us in competition with cities like Cleveland, Pittsburgh and Gary. After the materials are made up then we will again have the opportunity of delivering to points westward, southward and on into South American territories. And, so, you can see the wonderful opportunity for a bright future for a great city.

"We have before us now the waterway which will pass the House in January. When it passes the House and is signed by the President of the United States, the government engineers will immediately begin to complete this waterway from Utica to Grafton; the State of Illinois will complete the waterway from Lockport to Utica, and then the Mississippi River project from St. Louis to New Orleans will be completed; the Missouri River project will be completed, the Upper Mississippi and the Ohio; then the intra-coastal canal.

"And, so, when it is all done we will then be sitting right in the center of the greatest transportation opportunities of any city in the world. We have the coal, we have the railroad facilities, we have the people; now, why not take advantage of the great opportunity which is at our very door?"

CONGESTION OF COURT DOCKETS IS CONSIDERED

General Assembly to Try to Relieve Condition in Courts

Springfield, Ill., (AP)—Relief for congested court dockets in the state may be the basis for legislation at the current session of the general assembly.

Plans suggested by a number of legislators include possible re-districting of the seventeen circuits, or the election of a fourth judge in congested districts. Legality of an additional judge for certain districts has not yet been determined but it is assured that there would be considerable opposition if it would be necessary to elect four judges for each district.

Southern Illinois districts, whose dockets are comparatively light, would protest the additional tax necessary to support another judge which would not be vital to their needs.

For some time past it has been the custom of the Supreme Court to appoint a judge from one district to take the bench in another to clear the docket.

Opponents of legislation as a means of clearing up the situation point out that if either re-districting or the plan for a fourth judge in certain districts is put through it will necessarily be emergency legislation, since the circuit court judges are elected in May to serve six years. Emergency legislation requires that the measure be carried by a three-fourths majority, which political observers claim would be impossible to obtain in the house of representatives.

DECEMBER MONTH OF ACTIVITY FOR OGLE FARM AGENT

Fourteen Meetings Were Held: January Will Also be Busy

December was an active month in the Farm Bureau work of Ogle county. Fourteen meetings were held according to the report of the Farm Adviser, most of them for the purpose of promoting project work for the coming year. Automobile insurance on a mutual basis, exclusively for the use of Farm Bureau members has been started and a campaign begun to secure Ogle county's quota of chartered members in starting the new State Farm Bureau Insurance Company.

A protective association for the conviction of thieves and protection of the members against trespassers has also been started during the month. A large number of applications for both the Automobile Insurance and the Protective Association has been received at the Farm Bureau office and both of these projects apparently will be considered valuable additions to the Farm Bureau program. "No Trespassing" signs are being printed and will be distributed to the members of the Protective Association for posting in their fields.

The Boy's Calf Club work has been resumed in the communities of Rochelle and Mt. Morris and will be taken up as a new project at Polo. Mr. Zimmerman, Smith Hughes teacher of agriculture at Rochelle, will act as local club leader and the club work there will be supervised by a committee representing the Rochelle Chamber of Commerce.

At Mt. Morris the agricultural committee of the Kiwanis Club will assist in conducting boys and girls club work. At Polo this project will be conducted under the auspices of the banks. The local committee mentioned will of the communities mentioned will cooperate with the County Farm Bureau in its county program of club work.

During the month of January a series of Farm Bureau meetings will be held reaching every township with the purpose of enrolling every Farm Bureau member in at least definite activity for the year 1927. By this means the officers of the Farm Bureau hope to make the coming year a very valuable one in Farm Bureau service to all of its members.

Bill Grimm's Progress

H.C. WITWER

Copyright, 1926, by Collier's Weekly and G. D. Putnam Sons
"Bill Grimm's Progress" is a pictorialization by Film Booking Offices of America, Inc., (F. B. O.) of H. C. Witwer's stories of the same name.

SYNOPSIS
Barbara Raster, a federal detective, catches Jack Fairfax bootlegging, helped in her efforts by Bill Grimm. Bill comes to New York, as does Pansy Pilkington, his friend, who aspires to the stage. Jack gives her a job. Bill becomes a prize-fighter and knocks out several good men. He is trained by Butch Ford. He rises rapidly. On one of his motor-boat trips with Barbara he rescues a drowning man.
I tore off my shoes, shed coat, collar and shirt in the well known twinkling and dived. We were both under a half dozen times till finally I managed to tap my vis-a-vis on the chin and he went limp.
His name in round numbers was Johnson, and he freely admitted being a drug fiend. Johnson had belonged to a mob of dope smugglers working with the crews of certain steamers making New York as a regular port. Coming into Quarantine at night, the crews would drop packets overboard attached to floats, and the smugglers would cruise by in the darkness later and pick 'em up.
Johnson claimed he'd been trying to break the drug habit and quit those gyps which pass in the night, who'd figured he was going to make a squeal and threatened to cook him. Terrified by their warnings and driven cuckoo by hop, Johnson had decided he was taking the ark nearest him when he leaped off the ferry.
When we got to the bathhouse I phoned Butch Ford for dry clothes for two, and Barbara took charge of Johnson, who was close to the heebie-jeebies. After he'd repeated his story to her superiors and been promised protection they sent him to a hospital for treatment.

"Terrified by their warnings, Johnson had leaped off the ferry..."

A few days after that little experience I was working out in Butch's gym for this Rough House Gallagher brawl before a crowd which each put four bits on the line to see me ready myself. I'd just got done sparring four fast frames with Shifty Jones when who walks in but Pansy Pilkington.
"How did you come to be back here?" I says, anxious to get the interview over. "I thought you had a matinee today?"
"Not today or any other day, Bill!" smiles Pansy, a bit sorrowfully. "I'm not with 'Yes, Yes, Yvette' any more. I'm—er—resting!"
"You—you threw up a chance, like that?" I exclaimed, believing my ears to be lars.
"Pardon you—I did not!" returns Pansy. "Fairfax fired me!"
"Well, I'll be a cup of cocoa!" I breathe.
"Look here, Pansy, you was the bit of that show. Why, some of the critics was afraid you was a success and predicted your name would soon be up in the lights! Another thing, Jack Fairfax has been trying to make you for months to my knowledge. He wouldn't give you the air for no ordinary reason! Now, what's the answer?"
Well, she stalled for a bit, but I'm hard to discourage when I'm interested, and finally I got the low-down.
"Bill," says Pansy, toying with her hand bag and looking down at the floor, "you saved a bull-eye with your guess that Fairfax's interest in me was—was, well, for no good reason! In fact, he—he demands became so insistent that I had to stop him from calling on me. Did—did you know he is a drug fiend?"
I shook my head, amazed.
"And that's all?" continues Pansy. "He's mixed up with a gang of dope peddlers! I found that out when I let him use my apartment one night for what he called a conference with his business associates. Naturally, I thought he meant his partners in the production of his show. When they left I told him what I'd overheard, and he tried his damndest to get me to—take cocaine. I think it was. Of course I was furious and ordered him out. Then he got raving mad and carried on something awful. He told me the real reason he'd helped me and wound up by giving me his note!"
I jumped to my feet before she got half finished.
"Hold everything!" she says. "For Goshakes, lay off Fairfax, Bill. He's potent! It's just one more tough break for me, and I'll have to make the best of it. Fairfax carries a gun now, and if he found out I'd squawked to you he's just crazy enough to do anything. Why, Bill, if I hadn't come in the night he'd have shot me up to my fast he'd have shot one named Johnson then and there for trying to quit him!"

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

To the home of PROF and MOLLE ELWELL in Camdenville, Ind., one night in October, 1898, is brought a woman who had fainted on a train. That night twin girls are born to her and she dies without revealing her name.

The story then moves forward 15 years. The twins, now growing to beautiful womanhood, have been adopted and named MARGARET and ELIZABETH. They are called RUSTY AND BETTY.

JIM ELWELL, the son, enlists in the World War. He then discovers that one of the twins loves him.

He is shell-shocked at the Battle of Sedan and at first is reported dead. Later he is identified at a New York hospital and his mother and father hasten to him to find that his memory is gone, that he is like a living dead man.

Specialists despair of his recovery, believing an operation might be unsuccessful and fatal as well. The day before his parents are to take him home Jim wanders away, and Mollie, Prof, NELLIE DOWNING, a nurse, and MIKE HENNEGAN take up the pursuit.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXII
THE ride that followed Mollie Elwell was to remember as the weirdest experience of her life.

The rain had started coming down in torrents again, and the night was lit by occasional lightning flashes. The downpour against the windows of the taxicab, mingled with the roar of thunder and of traffic, made a tremendous din and speech had to be pitched high if one wanted to make himself heard.

Mike Hennegan looked for a long time at Mollie as she sat beneath the light in the taxicab's ceiling. As he watched, their car turned into Broadway from Hanover Square. The muscles of his throat tightened and he began to choke.

"You know, Prof," he began in a casual shout that would be heard above the clatter of the rain and the sounds of storm and traffic, "I was born in New York. It happened one morning when I was still very young. It was on April Fool's day, and it was raining—raining gloriously.

"My old man looked out the window and the rain stopped. Yep, then he tied a string on the end of his finger, put a dime in it and dropped it out of the window.

"Then he called down the rain pipe to Casey's bartender below. Two minutes later he got the office—a pull on the string that meant the bartender had heard him and had filled up the can.

"An' then it began to rain again. Sufferin' Pat how it did rain! I hope, Prof, you get the moral of what I'm tellin' you. Casey's bartender swore it was the rain that flooded the works, but when my old man hailed up the can and saw what he'd taken, he swore that someone had been taking advantage of him. You see, it was April Fool's day, as I've been sayin'.

That's why I'm always and on April Fool's day."

He paused and looked again at Mollie Elwell, who was staring out of the window of the cab.

"Another time," Mike began, but before he could do any more of his "chirking up" the taxi slowed to a stop. They were in front of police headquarters, and Nellie Downing turned to Prof.

"You an' Mike stay here with Mollie," she said, making ready for a dash through the rain to the shelter of the building. "I'll have a general call sent out, for Jim must have been picked up by this time. He couldn't be on the street very long without attracting the attention of some traffic officer or someone who would turn him over to a policeman."

The ride that followed Mollie Elwell was to remember as the weirdest experience of her life.

The door slammed shut behind her as she darted out and across the sidewalk. Mike Hennegan leaned forward and tapped Prof Elwell on the knee.

"I'm tellin' you, Prof," he said in a serious tone, "they don't make 'em any finer than that little girl right there. You ought to've seen the way she took care of us guys over in France when we was all gassed up and 'shot up an' crazy an' everything. Sometimes she'd be on duty for 18 hours—20 hours—at a stretch. I've seen her workin' till she was ready to drop. An' never a word of complaint. She's pure gold, all right, through an' through, Nellie Downing is. Did you ever hear her complain Prof?"

"I never did," said Prof, earnestly. "She's all that you say she is. She's a mighty sweet little woman. Mollie and I certainly owe her a lot for what she's done for us. And you too, Mike. We can never repay you. If it hadn't been for you, Mike, we might never have learned that Jim was alive."

Prof bowed his head for a second. "Mike," he said presently, "tell me—is Nellie Downing in love with Jim?"

Mollie's eyes shut quickly. Her mouth trembled. And Mike pursed up his lips meditatively.

"Well," he said, staring out into the rain, "I don't know as I'm a judge of that. She's been mighty good to him. She's broke about every rule in the hospital the way she's attended to him. She went down to Washington to straighten out his identity, an' she paid for that out of her own pocket. You know, the morning she reported to the superintendent in Long Island she was technically on duty the minute she handed over her papers.

"It was irregular, her goin' to Washington, but the super was a real gentleman. He made a job for me, for instance, when I was down an' out. No, I couldn't tell you whether she was in love with him. You'll have to judge for yourself."

Prof looked troubled. "What a shame!" he breathed.

"But," said Mike, "the main thing is to find the lad."

Nellie Downing came racing through the rain. She climbed into the cab.

"We're going to the Planet building first to pick up Jack Nevin. Meanwhile he's having inquiries made at every hospital. He talked to the officer in charge here and they're going to work their heads off to help us. Oh, I'm sure Jack will be a big help."

"You say," asked Prof, "that this man Nevin left a leg over in France?"

"Yes. And he's got a Congressional Medal of Honor, too. He's just a wonderful fellow and a fine newspaperman. He said he would help us all night if necessary."

A few minutes afterward the cab stopped in front of the Planet building. A man moved out from the shelter of the doorway. He was hobbling on a crutch, but he moved quickly and surely. Mike Hennegan got out of the cab and helped him in.

Nevin smiled. "Glad to know you all." To Prof he said, "Tell the driver to take us to the Metropolitan hospital."

"The hospital!" Mollie Elwell cried. "Now don't be alarmed. I've been asking questions. It seems a man was brought in at the Met hospital. Brought over from Broadway and Fifth street an hour or so ago. Seems he fell off a street car. They say he isn't hurt to any extent but he is in a dazed state and they can't get him to speak. He was dressed in a gray suit and answers the description I got of your son from Miss Downing here."

"The fact that they can't get him to talk seems a pretty good reason for thinking it's Jim Elwell. He could have reached Fifth street by a car from the foot of Broadway."

"He's boarded cars with us several times down there," said Prof.

Nevin turned down his coat collar. He was a blond young man with wavy hair and pale, finely chiseled features. One of his legs was gone from a point halfway between knee and hip.

He spoke to Nellie Downing. "Seems good to see you again," he said. To Prof and Mollie he explained: "You see, Miss Downing was very good to me."

"She's been good to a lot of us," said Mike Hennegan.

"I guess you're right, brother. Did you get a bit of it over there, too?"

"Enough," said Mike.

Nevin went on to explain something about the procedure in street accidents. "Very often the police get the reports of accidents, especially on the streets, before the injured reach the hospital. In fact, it is the police ambulance usually that gets to the scene first."

He informed Mike that, yes, he was a reporter. "I used to be what they called a leg man. I guess you'd call me only half a leg man now," ruefully looking at his amputated limb. "So I'm doing rewrite most of the time now. The city editor let me cover this, though, when I put it up to him that friends of mine were involved."

"Miss Downing," he went on, "tells me your son was shell-shocked at Sedan. I was through the Meuse-Argonne campaign myself. In fact, it was in the windup of it that I lost my leg. I was in a hospital in France when the Armistice was signed. That's where I met Miss Downing in January. She was doing post-war duty."

His words were drowned in the roar of an elevated train overhead. Mollie Elwell shuddered at the sound. Prof peered through the window.

Jack Nevin looked sharply at Mollie. He said to Prof: "When we reach the hospital I think it would be best if Miss Downing and I went in first."

He spoke very quietly, but Jim's mother's face went white as a sheet. (To Be Continued)

The search is a long way from being over yet, and Mollie and Prof Elwell are to face another tragedy.

ALERTNESS MAIN FORCE IN FIGHT ON DREAD CANCER

American Society and State Health Dept. Continue Fight

The fight to reduce the number of cancer deaths in Illinois, which it is believed numbered fully eight thousand in 1925 will continue during the new year. It was announced today by Dr. Gilbert FitzPatrick, executive chairman for Illinois of the American Society for the Control of Cancer.

Nearly all of the 102 counties of the state are engaged in the battle against one of "man's most insidious enemies," and it is expected by those directing the work that a reduction in the number of deaths will follow the educational work which is being carried on locally under the direction of County Chairmen.

Dr. Isaac D. Rawlings, director of health of Illinois, is assisting the Cancer Society in spreading information and knowledge of what to do to avoid cancer. His department has issued for distribution to the citizens of Illinois a Cancer Bulletin of which more than 10,000 have already been distributed. It is expected that another 100,000 will be distributed at educational meetings for laymen held under the auspices of the American Society for the Control of Cancer during the next few months.

The bulletin stresses the fact that "the key to improvement in the cancer situation is an increased alertness in the general public, a better understanding of the early signs of cancer and what should be done when such signs show themselves."

Who Should Be Alert?
"Cancer has been known to develop in children and in adults less than forty-five. But such cases are rare. Men and women forty-five and over will disregard the possibility of cancer at their peril."

Cancer Is Painless
"Two or three false notions about cancer should be corrected. One is that cancer is a painful disease. Early cancer is painless. Keep clearly in mind that painlessness is fundamental in cancer; pain is an acquired characteristic."

"Cancer is frequently called a hopeless disease. That is not true. If cancer is diagnosed early and promptly and properly treated, results are very satisfactory."

"Heredit is not a factor in cancer. People inherit a tendency to cancer of specific kinds at specific locations and at specific ages. People who inherit the cancer tendency need to be more alert than others, particularly at certain ages and if they are engaged in certain occupations."

"Because a given treatment has cured a case of suspected cancer, or even a case of known cancer, it does not follow that that cure is the best cure.

Investigate Dyspeptic Symptoms
Any dyspepsia, indigestion or burning which develops in a person over forty-five years old and which persists, should be carefully examined to rule out cancer. These danger signals do not establish the diagnosis of cancer, but they should lead to careful examination.

"Whether or not the people with cancer are to be cured depends primarily upon their mental alertness, their intelligence, their decision and their good sense. It depends secondarily on the care taken in making an examination by their medical advisors and on their alertness, intelligence, decision and common sense."

Yes!
right now is the ideal time to have your Ford overhauled

You have a good car and it will continue to give you first class service if you give it a square deal. Every car needs tuning up after a period of use to offset the effects of natural wear. If you neglect this, your car actually grows old before its time and will probably cost more to operate because of imperfect mechanical condition. You can spare your car better now than next spring and we can give you a faster job. Drive in and let's talk it over.
